The traditional summer camp recognizes that play is a powerful form of learning that contributes mightily to the child’s healthy physical, emotional, social, and intellectual development.”

– Dr. David Elkind

Children in the 21st century sometimes seem to have busier lives than their parents. While a wide variety of activities and opportunities to try new things can help children identify their interests and passions, recent research supports the importance of unstructured play for their healthy development.

Opportunities to play and to explore the natural environment with peers and caring adults support cognitive, emotional and social growth and learning. Play also promotes the development of resilience and grit in children – key coping skills for successful adulthood.*

Here are some recommendations for adding play to your child's life. (Hint: summer camp helps you get there!)

Reduce or eliminate TV time and replace it with playtime. At camp we have eliminated TV time for eight or more hours a day.

Make play-dates with children of a similar age and let them initiate the kind of play they wish to engage in. Camp offers opportunities for play with peers every day.

Avoid too many toys too often. When it comes to toys, less is more. Children can be overwhelmed by too many playthings and will end up going from toy to toy without spending time on any one of them. Choose toys that encourage imaginative inspiration, rather than short-term interest.

Watch out for over-scheduling. Many parents regard play as a luxury that children today cannot afford. Make sure to leave some unscheduled, free time for your child each day. Allow your child to choose the activity. At camp we strive to balance structured activities with more self-directed opportunities for campers.

Explore the great outdoors. For adults and children alike, nature can offer inspiration and delight. Recent research suggests that the therapeutic aspects of time spent in nature may rival or exceed traditional therapy. Decatur campers spend plenty of time outdoors – especially in day camps, sports, tennis and aquatics programs.

This Camp Playbook can be used as a planning tool for your child’s Summer in the City. On pages 12-13 you will find the At-A-Glance summary of Decatur summer camps by week, including times, locations, instructors, and cost. You will also find additional camp planning tools at decaturga.com/cys.

iDiscover Camp • Weekly Sessions: June 17-July 12 (register for 1-4 sessions)
Orientation (required) June 10-13 • $230/$255 per week

LIT is a teen leadership summer camp program that provides an opportunity to develop management and leadership skills through innovative and project-based learning activities geared toward college and career exploration, service and social impact, and active living. The objective is to empower teens to embrace the importance of independence, interdependence, relationship building, problem solving, effective communication, self-management, assertiveness, and group management skills.

Teens will also participate in job readiness workshops where they will learn interview skills and participate in mock interviews, build resumes and cover letters, and get professional headshots.

The LIT program begins with an intensive orientation in which participants learn about proper supervision and about leading a variety of activities for younger children. The LITs learn CPR and First Aid as well as other skills and knowledge in preparation for supporting the summer camp program. The orientation week is mandatory for all LITs and runs June 10-13, 9 a.m.-3 p.m. daily.

All LITs must attend every day of orientation – no exceptions! LITs close their orientation with a mandatory graduation team-building trip that allows them to use the week’s newly learned skills. Throughout the summer LITs have ongoing training and special activities.

Applications for the LIT program may be found online at decaturga.com/cys on the Forms page, or pick up an application packet at the Decatur Recreation Center, Ebster Recreation Center, DHS or RMS starting Jan. 4.

Applications must be returned by March 12. Interviews will take place April 1-5 (unless otherwise arranged). Applicants need recommendations from two teachers and one non-relative personal reference. Completed recommendation forms should accompany applications, each in a sealed envelope.
